OIL AND MINING OPERATOR BECOMES INTERESTED IN DIVIDE

The first gentleman who dashed into the Mizpah hotel this morning about ten seconds after the arrival of the train from the coast was a portly looking visitor bearing the distinguishing marks of a man accustomed to the mining game and not showing the years of experience which would have furrowed the brows of less happy dispositions with lines of worry. This was none other than J. E. McCreary, oil magnate, gold, silver, lead and copper miner, not to mention a dozen side issues which he follows to keep his joints from contracting rheumatic twinges. His name is a household word in financial circles in San Francisco, while down in the oil country they are still telling stories of his exploits.

plots in tapping Coalinga, the oil bearing sands and selling out to the Standard Oil company at his own figure. In Nevada he has extensive interests in Rochester where he held control of the Rochester Merger. In Outman he owned control of the Combination and Cash Entry while over at Chloride, Ariz., he is recognized as the owner of the Schuykill and Tennessee mines which had an enormous production of lead, silver and zinc during the period of hostilities.

Mr. McCreary will be associated with R. L. Johns in whatever interests he may acquire in the Divide or oiling districts where he has taken options on some well known properties.
